About Swinerton
Swinerton traces its roots back to 1888, when a young Swedish immigrant formed a brick masonry and contracting business in Los Angeles, the scene of a post–Gold Rush building boom. Since its earliest days building up the Western frontier, the company has survived and thrived through two world wars, the Great Depression and Recession, 22 US presidents, turbulent social revolutions, dynamic cultural movements, and a series of natural disasters. Exceptional craftsmanship and a reputation for integrity have led to contracts for some of the most celebrated landmark projects throughout the West and beyond.

The company now maintains a dozen offices in six states and has helped build communities from the peaks of the Rocky Mountains to the Hawaiian Islands, from the Gulf of Alaska to the jungles of Colombia. The company still operates under California contractor’s license number 92—the one it obtained in 1927 when the state first began issuing licenses. Many Swinerton-built structures now claim a spot on the National Register of Historic Places and other architectural preservation lists. Tested by time, these buildings tell the story of an evolving America.
